

Sarah Slusser Elected to Prologis Board of Directors

Seasoned Energy Executive Brings Deep Industry and Strategic Expertise

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- Prologis, Inc. (NYSE: PLD) announced today that Sarah Slusser was elected to its board of directors at the company's annual stockholder meeting on May 8, 2025. Slusser will serve on the board's Governance and Nomination committee.

Slusser is the chief executive officer of Cypress Creek Renewables LLC, a leading U.S. power producer. She brings more than three decades of leadership experience across the energy sector, including roles in renewable development, corporate M&A and executive management.

Before joining Cypress Creek, Slusser founded Point Reyes Energy Partners LLC, an energy storage advisory and development firm, and co-founded GeoGlobal Energy LLC, a geothermal company with international operations. She previously spent over 20 years at The AES Corporation, where she led the global mergers and acquisitions group.

"We are pleased to welcome Sarah to our board," said Hamid R. Moghadam, co-founder, chairman and CEO of Prologis. "Her operational and strategic depth in energy will be a key asset as we continue to expand our energy solutions for customers worldwide."

"I'm honored to join the board of a company that's not only transforming the global supply chain but also leading the charge in sustainability," said Slusser. "Truly in a category by itself, Prologis is uniquely positioned to drive energy innovation at scale. I'm excited to support the company's next chapter of growth."
